The Nautilus

THE HISTORY of Greenville High school yearbooks dates back twenty-two years to the year 1916 when the first such publication, "The Mountaineer," appeared.

During the next scholastic year, the name of the book was changed to "The Nautilus," having been named by Mrs. Maude N. Earle, at present head of the G. H. S. mathematics department, and was published as a literary magazine for two years. However, in the year 1919 it was discontinued.

In 1921, The Nautilus came crawling out of its shell and was published four times each year, once by each class in school. This procedure continued until 1926 when Editor J. C. Keys, Jr., combined the four books into one volume. Thereafter all classes contributed to the makeup of one book, which appeared at the end of the school year under the auspices of the senior class. From 1927 until the present year, the editorship of The Nautilus has been capably held by the following:

1927..... Robert Scales
1928..... Lucile New 1929..... Furman Pinson
1930..... Robert Waldrop
1931..... Bill Workman
1932..... Theron Cleveland
1933..... John Winn
1934..... Joe Seawell
1935..... Charles Milford
1936..... Perry Gwinn
1937..... Bill Goodlette
1938... Mary Frances Johnson and Elise Nance

Definite themes have been carried out in each volume since 1934. These motifs and their respective years follow: 1934, aviation; 1935, "Robin Hood"; 1936, "Treasure Island"; 1937, circus; and 1938, history of the city school system.

PROF. W. S. MORRISON

Prof. Morrison was elected the district's first superintendent in 1887 and served for a five-year period, retiring in 1891. Although there was only one building in the district when he became superintendent, two new ones were constructed during his administration, Oaklawn school on Pendleton street and Central school, the site of the present high school building. Thus, Prof. Morrison gave the wheels of progress in District 17 their first turn and inaugurated a never-to-be-forgotten work.

Prof. Morrison

PROF. W. S. MORRISON was elected the district's first superintendent on September 14, 1887, at a salary of $950 per year, which was later increased to an even $1,000 on the condition that he move his family to Greenville.

The first superintendent's faculty roster included seven white teachers and six colored ones, all of whom were to receive $25.00 per month for nine months. The names of these first white teachers were Misses Sallie Dorroh, Mattie Marshall, Early, Nan Williams, Jennie Irvine, Eliza Powell, who formerly had operated a private school in the city; and W. J. Thackston.

The last-named Mr. Thackston was the first principal of the so-called "higher grades" in the Greenville district, being succeeded by a Mr. Slaughter in 1891.

There was only one school building in the city upon the establishment of District 17 in 1886. However, in 1887, the first board of trustees erected two new structures, Oaklawn school on Pendleton street, and Central school, site of the old high school building on Avenue street (now called Westfield street). These two new structures were completed in 1888.

The site of the old Central school, which later became Greenville High school, was of great historical significance, as it stood next to the famous old Governor William Alston mansion. The governor's wife, Theodosia Burr, was the daughter of Aaron Burr, of dueling fame, who later was said to have been lost at sea after boarding a ship at Charleston.

Prof. Morrison continued as superintendent of Greenville schools until the spring of 1891, or for a five-year period.

DEDICATION

To the hallowed memory of all those great souls, living and dead, who, by their foresight and ceaseless efforts both in the classroom and in administrative offices, made possible the fifty-two year accomplishments of the Greenville City Schools, this, the twenty-first volume of THE NAUTILUS, is humbly dedicated.

Board of Trustees

THE GREENVILLE CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT, District 17, destined to become one of the largest and most progressive in the state, was established on May 3, 1886.

The first board of trustees of District 17, composed of five of the thriving little town's most illustrious men, included T. Q. Donaldson as chairman, F. W. Marshall, T. C. Gower, H. T. Cook, and S. S. Thompson.

The first recorded meeting of this body, with Dr. D. F. Dorrah succeeding Mr. Marshall upon the latter's death, was held on September 14, 1887, at which time Prof. W. S. Morrison was elected the district's first superintendent.

A. H. Cureton became a member of the board in 1888 and E. F. S. Rowley in 1890.

Meetings of the first board of trustees were held at 6 o'clock in the afternoons so Mr. Gower could attend. These sessions were held in the Gower and Reilley warehouse on West Washington street at a site now occupied by Fred Gentry's Flower Shop. Gower and Reilley's was one of the most flourishing establishments in Greenville at that time.

There was only one school building in the city upon the chartering of District 17 in 1886. This structure was located on Main street at a site now occupied by the Ritz theatre. The first board of trustees sold bonds valued at $25,000 in 1887 in order to erect two new structures, Oaklawn school on Pendleton street, and Central school, site of the present high school building, on Avenue street (now called Westfield street). These two edifices were completed in 1888.

The site of the old Central school, which later became Greenville High school, was of great historical significance, as it stood next to the famous old Governor William Alston mansion. Governor Alston's wife, Theodosia Burr, was the daughter of Aaron Burr, of dueling fame, who later was said to have been lost at sea after boarding a boat at Charleston.

Five board of trustees chairmen have served the district. These men in the order in which they appeared on the scene follow: T. Q. Donaldson, after whom Donaldson school was named; P. T. Hayne, after whom Hayne school was named; Capt. George W. Sirrine, Col. E. M. Blythe, and Major William F. Robertson.

Bonds for the erection of the new senior high school building on Vardry street, now practically completed, were floated by the board of trustees in 1929. Seven acres of the 13-acre plot on which this structure has been erected were bought from Mrs. Curran B. Earle for $35,000. The remaining six acres were procured from the H. C. Markley estate for $15,000.

The personnel of the present board of trustees consists of Major William F. Robertson as chairman; Miss Julia Charles as secretary; Col. E. M. Blythe, Marion M. Hewell, Ernest Patton, Brown Mahon, and J. B. League.

PROF. EDWIN L. HUGHES

Prof. Hughes, the district's second superintendent, served from the fall of 1891 until the spring of 1916, a total of 25 years. He saw the system grow from three buildings to nine, from 900 pupils with 15 teachers to over 4,000 pupils. Prof. Hughes was a great lover of music, organizing the school's first band and orchestra.

FOREWORD

"Our hearts will turn to thee in tenderness,

"And may God bless you, dear old G. H. S."

Prof. Hughes

PROF. MORRISON continued as superintendent of schools until the spring of 1891, five years. He was replaced by Prof. Edwin L. Hughes in the fall of 1891. Prof. Hughes served the system for twenty-five years, never receiving more than $1,800 per year for his services. However, he did manage to get his teachers' pay raised from $25 per month to $50 per month for nine months.

When Prof. Hughes came to District 17, there were only three school buildings, two for white pupils and one for colored. There were seven white schools and two colored ones when he left the system. These included Central (now the present high school), Oaklawn, Pinkney, Park, Camperdown Mill schools, as well as the buildings of Chicora college for white children, and Union and Allen for colored.

Nine hundred pupils were enrolled in the district on his arrival, while the system boasted an enrollment of over 4,000 upon his departure. Only seven grades were listed at the outset of his term. Three additional grades were added before he left.

His first graduation class numbered 19, while it had grown to 60 at the completion of his final year.

Prof. Hughes specialized in music during his superintendency, his school being one of the first in the state to employ a special music teacher. He organized the first band in the city schools, composed of twenty-one pieces. The musicians were outfitted in natty red and black uniforms and were transported from place to place in an up-to-date band wagon. An orchestra was also organized while he was superintendent.

Debating teams and literary societies were added to the extra-curricular program during his regime. He was also instrumental in adding domestic science courses to the curriculum of the city schools.

Prof. Hughes has served as a Chautauqua lecturer, as an editorial writer for the Greenville News, as superintendent of the Greenville City Hospital, and as a specialist in geographical work since leaving the district. He is now living with his daughter, Mrs. J. P. Mallard, in Sumter, South Carolina.

DR. JAMES L. MANN

Dr. James L. Mann, the district's third superintendent who is now finishing his twenty-second year in that capacity, has served with brilliance and great efficiency. He succeeded Prof. Hughes in April, 1916. When he took over the reins, he found six school buildings and some 4,000 pupils in the district. With the completion of the present school year, Dr. Mann has seen his enrollment jump to the 10,000 mark. He has also been instrumental in the construction of the equivalent of 24 new buildings, while his faculty roster now contains the names of 254 teachers.

Dr. Mann

DR. JAMES L. MANN, beloved and well-versed leader of the Greenville city schools, ends his twenty-second brilliant year this spring. He succeeded Prof. Hughes as superintendent of District 17 in April, 1916.

He came from a similar position in the Greensboro, North Carolina, city district after having previously served in the same capacities at Lancaster and Florence, South Carolina.

When Dr. Mann accepted the superintendency of the Greenville district, he found only six school buildings, four white and two colored. These structures were known as Central, Oaklawn, Park, Pinkney (white) schools; and Allen and Union (colored) schools. Approximately 4,000 students were enrolled at that time.

The high school, known as Central school then, consisted of only ten grades in 1916. He added another grade the following year and graduated his first senior class in the spring of 1917, a class of seven girls. Personnel of this class, the first eleventh-grade group, included Elizabeth Bagwell, treasurer; Helen Barkshadt, secretary; Mary Seyle, editor of the school annual; Lucy Ware, Virginia Thomason, and Augusta Walton.

The name of the high school was changed from "Central High" to "Greenville High" upon the installation of departments and proper equipment several years later, the exact date being hard to determine.

The physical education department was organized under Dr. Mann's supervision, with Jay Couch as the first paid athletic director. Couch was followed by "Cowboy" Coleman. J. H. "Speedy" Speer, the present head coach, succeeded Coleman in the fall of 1928.

At the completion of this year, 1937-38, his twenty-second as superintendent of the Greenville city district, Dr. Mann will have seen his student enrollment leap from 4,000 to around 10,000. He has also been instrumental in the building of the equivalent of 24 new buildings. These new edifices include Donaldson, Stone, Stone Avenue, John Street Number One, John Street Junior High school, Billy Cleveland, Hayne, Camperdown, Anderson Street, Augusta Circle, Poinsett, Overbrook, old Greenville High School, new Greenville Senior High school, Oscar (colored), Sullivan Street (colored), Sterling High (colored), and annexes to old Greenville High, Park, Pinkney, Hayne schools, as well as renovations at Augusta Circle, Allen (colored), and Union (colored) schools.

Dr. Mann has graduated over 3,000 seniors from Greenville High school, culminated by the 390 who will finish their high school careers this spring.

Five principals have served under Dr. Mann. They follow in the order of their appearance: M. E. Brockman, now superintendent of the Chester (South Carolina) city schools; W. F. Warren, now superintendent of the Durham (North Carolina) schools; W. F. Lockett, now head of a boys' school at Louisville, Kentucky; W. F. Liggins, former superintendent of the Sumter (South Carolina) city schools who recently resigned to return to the Greenville city district as assistant superintendent and director of secondary education; and A. J. Parkhurst, who retires at the close of this year.

History of Alma Mater

"THERE IS a school we love in Dixie land—"

Almost immortal is this song to the hearts of those who have been affiliated with Greenville High school in the past and who are now connected with the institution.

Back in the year 1921, three years after the World war, two Greenville High school senior girls wrote the song that is still today the school's official Alma Mater.

Lucile Smith, now the wife of Dr. Fred Jones, head of the English department at Mercer university, Macon, Georgia, composed the music. The way in which she found the stirring notes of our school song was quite interesting.

Lucile, a popular senior at that time, often played the piano for her grandmother in the afternoons. Her grandmother's favorites were old songs, such as "Carry Me Back To Old Virginia" and "Long, Long Ago." As her grandmother would select each song, Lucile would casually run her fingers over the keyboard, picking out various little tunes.

One day Lucile noticed that after her grandparent had sung "Long, Long Ago," a new tune would come to her mind. This tune was in the same key as "Long, Long Ago."

On another occasion a friend of hers, Ruth Hatch, another G. H. S. senior at that time who is now the wife of Edgar Wind, heard the original melody on the piano and was overcome with amazement.

Returning to her home that day, the tune ran over and over in Ruth's mind and she gradually added words to the song. Later she finished the words and took them to Lucile.

The next day they took their completed song to Mrs. Maude Earle, senior class sponsor that year. Mrs. Earle had the same reaction that Ruth Hatch had had. She immediately had the girls play and sing their scholastic song to Mr. M. E. Brockman, the principal.

Later in the week when they had almost forgotten about playing the song, Mr. Brockman called them upon the stage to play it for the entire student body. The result was tremendous applause and a strong patriotic feeling among all present.

Mr. Brockman mounted the stage and in a clear voice made this short statement, which was to affect the school life years later: "I have requested and it has been granted that this song be used from now on for all student body meetings, ball games, and graduation exercises."

Seventeen years ago this was spoken, and this year some 400 seniors will march out from graduation ceremonies at Textile Hall with this same song ringing in their ears and the same Alma Mater setting time for their last walk as G. H. S. students.

THE G. H. S. ALMA MATER

There is a school we love in Dixie land,
'Tis Greenville High for which we take our stand.

There we are taught to fill in life a place,
There learn to do, to dare, to run the race.

Truthness and purity our colors show,
Red as the crimson and white as the snow.
Loyal to our motto may we e'er be,
Only through truth shall we be free.

Though we may wander far whate'er our
lot,
We'll ever keep the sweet lessons you've taught.

Our hearts will turn to thee in tenderness,
And pray God bless you, dear old G. H. S.

SECTION I

The Classes

Mr. Brockman

THE PRINCIPALSHIP of M. E. Brockman, from 1912 through 1921, marked the awakening of G. H. S. to the more modern trends in school life. Mr. Brockman was the first full-fledged high school principal of the Greenville city schools, as the eleventh grade was added during his regime. Serving as athletic director as well as principal, Mr. Brockman did much to arouse interest and participation in extra-curricular activities at G. H. S.

During his administration the monotony of the three "R's" was broken by the introduction of science courses. These included general science, chemistry, and physics. In 1916, the eleventh grade was added and the first graduating class in 1917 contained seven members.

In 1916, the first annual appeared, bearing the name "Mountaineer." The next year the book's name was changed to "The Nautilus" at the suggestion of Mrs. Maude N. Earle, present head of the G. H. S. mathematics department.

Four literary societies were organized in 1917, and in 1921 the first student newspaper, "The Hustler," made its debut. Other significant events include the re-naming of the school, with the title, "Greenville High," replacing "Central High." Work on a new high school building was begun in the summer of 1919 and completed in the early fall of 1920.

One of the most outstanding events during Principal Brockman's administration came during the latter part of his regime when a large service flag, containing a star for every G. H. S. boy who served during the World war, was presented the school by the Palmetto Literary society. This project was headed by Mrs. Maude N. Earle, sponsor of the Palmetto Literary society at that time.

Mr. Brockman is at present superintendent of the Chester city schools.

First Eleventh-Grade Graduating Class

1938 Senior Class Poem

The class of '38—that is the name
That they have given us. And yet we feel Bound by a unity far closer still
Than “class” implies. Our love, our hate, our shame,
Together we have borne—a common blame
A common victory, a common peal
Of laughter ours. No mighty pow’r can steal
Our oneness, nor our unity defame.
Together we have striven for the best,
And now we face the world’s great open door
And hear in life discordant notes of wrong
That clamor to be righted. All the zest
Of life is ours. Now give us we implore,
Oh, '38, the power to be strong.

The G.H.S. Music Department

DEEPLY ROOTED in the past and in the tradition of the school, the history of the G. H. S. music department dates from before the turn of the century.

The first music in the schools was in the form of singing at the opening exercises each morning. According to E. L. Hughes, superintendent of schools from 1891-1915, school was opened each morning with chapel exercises in which singing was featured. The singers were led by a fifty-voice chorus seated on the stage, directed by the superintendent.

Following the disbanding of an early municipal band, several rather ancient and battered up instruments were left to the school. Professor Hughes set to work and organized a band that, to quote his own version: "played something that sounded somewhat like music and had the distinction of being the first strictly school band in the state, if not in the South."

This novel band played daily for marching, a regular part of the school's curriculum; led the singing (with the assistance of the chorus); gave frequent concerts; led the school parades on May day; and played for Memorial day exercises. The group also sponsored various entertainments, including the first moving picture and the first phonograph to appear in the city.

The band at that time also took a trip to Black Mountain, North Carolina, and climbed Mount Mitchell to play a concert to the wolves and bears. The band was kept up for 18 years and at one time or another included over one hundred boys. Many prominent men in the community today were once members of the band.

During this time, according to Superintendent Hughes, a school orchestra "of sorts" composed of "guitars, violins, flute, cornet, double bass, 'cello, and piano," was organized.

Interest in music, however, began to wane as time wore on. Little can be learned of further musical activity until 1924 when Miss Shephard was placed in charge of the department and began the organization of a girls glee club. This work was carried on in 1926 by Miss J. Louise Ball. She was succeeded in 1927 by Miss Elizabeth Cathcart.

In 1928, Dupre Rhame took charge of the work and started G. H. S. musical organizations on the road to state renown. His first year was marked by a victory in the Piedmont glee club contest.

Under his regime, a boys glee club was organized and won first place in the state music contests at Rock Hill for six successive years. Almost equally brilliant records achieved by the mixed chorus and girls glee club gave the local department the sweepstakes cup for four straight years.

An orchestra was also organized by Mr. Rhame. It made an excellent record at contests and assisted in the production of "Pinafore" and "Riding Down the Sky," two operettas given under Mr. Rhame's direction.

Assuming the direction of the department in 1934, Guy S. Hutchins, the present music director, has continued the record of progress. An imposing array of "excellents" at the state contests and a second place in this year's sweepstakes award mark some of his victories.

More concerned with music for the student body than contests, Maestro Hutchins has presented many concerts, both here and in other cities throughout the state. A band has been organized, beside which the first band would be ranked a "brass ensemble." Due to Maestro Hutchins' work, athletic teams are supported by stirring marches as well as student cheering.

An orchestra, which, in proficiency and instrumentation, out-ranks any former group at G. H. S. or any other organization throughout the state, has been organized.

So important has the new music department become that an entire section of the new building which is to house G. H. S. next year has been assigned to its activities. An even more glorious future seems to await this department with its historic past.

W. F. WARREN
Principal 1921-1926

SECTION II

Activities

Mr. Warren

WILLIAM FRANKLIN WARREN succeeded Mr. Brockman as G. H. S. principal in the fall of 1921 and served through the spring of 1926. His administration was marked by advance along all lines. Occupying the new high school building (now the present G. H. S. building), in its first year, Mr. Warren later enlarged the curriculum by the addition of the music, physical education, and manual training departments.

Immediate improvement in scholastic standards led to the admission of G. H. S. into the Association of Southern Accredited Schools. The Neblett Free library was donated to the school in 1922. Clubs were introduced into the system in 1926 in an effort to improve upon the now-ancient literary societies.

One of the most colorful events of Mr. Warren's principalship was the presentation to the school of the bronze tablet in memory of the G. H. S. boys who fought in the World War. The movement was proposed by Miss Martha Dean, then a member of the G. H. S. faculty. Later this movement was taken up by the Palmetto Literary society, under the sponsorship of Mrs.

Maude N. Earle, now head of the G. H. S. mathematics department, and was completed by an organization in the school of which Miss Barbara Hewell was chairman. Numerous letters were forwarded the patrons of the school. These patrons contributed liberally to the movement. Money raised in this manner was augmented by funds acquired through the sale of lunches at G. H. S.

Finally, a fund of approximately $800 was raised and the tablet purchased. It was presented to the school with an impressive ceremony and can still be found on the walls of the second floor in this left wing of the building, a monument of the efforts of those fine people of 1921 to commemorate the deeds of the Greenville High boys in the never-to-be-forgotten World war.

A new wing was added to the plant in 1924.

Jay Couch was placed in charge of daily physical education classes in 1925.

Following an illustrious five years of service, Mr. Warren was followed in the principal's chair by W. F. Lockett in the fall of 1926.

The Forum

THE PRESENT SYSTEM of student participation in G. H. S. government was inaugurated in the year 1929 under the principalship of W. F. Loggins. Mrs. Louise Y. Earle, dean of girls at that time, was in charge of the work as director of extra-curricular activities.

Tom Black, popular athlete, was the first president of the student body in 1929-30, with Annie Sue Walker as the first vice president.

Later in the same year the Forum set a requirement of eight qualifications for all its members.

Bill Wright was the second president in 1930-31, with Mildred Gilmer as his vice president.

Other student body officers and the scholastic years that they served follow: 1931-32, Charles Ballenger, president; Mary Haynsworth, vice president; 1932-33, Kenneth Fryfogle, president; Carol League, vice president; 1933-34, Alma Pack, president; Lee Shackelford, vice president; 1934-35, Mallory Smith, president; Mary Simms Oliphant, vice president; 1935-36, Walter Cottingham, president; Elizabeth Talbot Smith, vice president; 1936-37, John Massey, president; Doris Wright, vice president; and 1937-38, B. F. Vaughan, president; Floride McBee, vice president.

Greenville High News

ON OCTOBER 3, 1928, there rolled from the presses a small, five-columned newspaper bearing the name plate, High News. This event marked the beginning of ten years of continuous publication, a decade of progress and advancement culminating in the ten-year anniversary program this year.

The year 1928 saw a great awakening of interest in extra-curricular activities, instigated under the direction of Principal W. F. Loggins. During the ten years of the paper's history, the G. H. S. extra-curricular system has become one of the foremost in the South. Leading this advance has been the student newspaper, which has brought the school national and international recognition.

The journal was edited throughout that first year by William Keys, first of a long line of Keyeses who have held various positions on the publication. Serving as faculty adviser of the paper was Mrs. Louise Y. Earle, later to become G. H. S. dean of girls. Despite its inexperience in journalistic competition, the little paper copped third place in the Columbia Scholastic Press association contest that year.

Next editor of the infant publication was James Scales, at present an Annapolis midshipman. Dan Crosland, of radio fame, served as adviser. Under their direction the still-young publication won a second place rating in the C. S. P. A. event and tied for second in the Southeastern contest, sponsored by Emory university and the Atlanta Journal.

Scales' successor was Francis Cunningham, later turned minister. During his editorship, the paper passed into the hands of Fred C. Kendrick, who has, as adviser, piloted the paper from then until the present time. Another second in the C. S. P. A. competition and a third from the Southeastern event were the awards netted during that year.

In 1931, Harris Chewning, now studying for a master's degree at the University of Virginia, became editor of the journal. Harris was the only junior to head the paper during its ten years of publication. Under his direction the journal rose to new heights, taking first place in the Columbia event and receiving First Class Honor rating in the National Scholastic Press association contest.

Mary Wyche succeeded Harris and became the only girl editor in the paper's history. With Mary at the helm, the paper was enlarged to a width of seven columns. The awards received during Chewning's year were duplicated with the addition of All-American in the N. S. P. A. and a second place in the Southeastern event.

To the front in 1933 came Dyar Massey, under whose supervision the journal made great strides. The Greenville chapter of Quill and Scroll, international honorary society for high school journalists, was organized. High News received from this honorary organization an international honor rating. The paper also made its entrance into competition at the Southern Interscholastic Press association, placing second. Editor Massey attended the convention of the group and was elected student president. Other former awards were received again by the publication.

The following year, headed by Wayne Freeman, the publication won first place in the Southeastern event. Other awards were again repeated.

Head of the journal for 1935-36 was Yancey Gilkerson. During his administration Pacemaker, the highest possible award, was won in the N. S. P. A. competition. The Quill and Scroll chapter was awarded the international trophy for having led all other chapters throughout the world in constructive journalistic achievement. This award was based mainly on the group's work in organizing and staging the first state press convention. First place was awarded the paper in the S. I. P. A. event, other contest results remaining the same.

Last year, with David Chewning as editor, the policy and finances of the paper were placed under the supervision of a Board of Control. Other radical changes in the make-up of the paper took place, including the shifting of the editorial page to the back. Another mammoth press convention was staged. All-Southern Honor Rating, as well as an individual current events prize, was awarded the paper in the S. I. P. A. competition.

Delegates were sent to both the N.S.P.A. meet and the C. S. P. A. conclave. Medalist, the highest possible rating was received from the C. S. P. A. judges, while the sweepstakes and a scholarship for Editor Chewning were won in the Emory event.

This year, headed by Albert Winn, the paper has carried a ten year anniversary theme throughout, launching the year with an eight-page anniversary special. Medalist was again received in C. S. P. A. competition. Another Emory scholarship was won. Two trophies, the sweepstakes and news writing awards, were won in the Winthrop Story-of-the-Month contest. The organization of an advanced journalism class greatly facilitated the publication of the paper, eliminating all night work. Large delegations were sent to three conventions.

Thus, High News has completed its first decade of publication, having played a leading part in the development of an outstanding system of activities at G. H. S.

W. F. LOCKETT succeeded Mr. Warren as G. H. S. principal, serving for two years, the 1926-27 and 1927-28 sessions.

Though his term was rather short, it was nevertheless quite significant.

Almost simultaneous with his arrival at G. H. S. was the completion of the spacious new gymnasium, site of many thrilling basketball matches since that date. This gymnasium will continue to be used by the varsity Red Raider basketball quintet in interscholastic competition.

Free textbooks were instituted during his regime, marking another outstanding milestone in educational progress for the Greenville city schools. This system is still in vogue in District 17.

Red Raider Gridsters of '37

THE MEN BEHIND the headlines of Greenville High's most successful football season in the past four years, in the opinion of Mentor "Speedy" Speer, number 19 strong, as he awarded that many Red Raider gridsters the coveted block "G's" at the annual football banquet.

One member of the famed Electric backfield earned a position on the All-Southern high school eleven, and three Speermen were the choice of South Carolina's 25 leading sport figures, who named the annual High News All-State team.

The Hale Most Valuable Player trophy was awarded to "Bouncing Bill" Byers, veteran of three years, elected to the 1937 All-State team as quarterback, and subsequently named permanent captain of the Speermen. Byers' keen mind on the field, swift legs with shifty hips, and an accurate passing arm made him a scoring sensation during the season.

Walt "Booty" Payne, for two years, Greenville High's punting mainstay, received the solitary call at G. H. S. this year to serve on the honorary All-Southern combine. All-State man for a second consecutive season, Payne was another terror of the double stripes and helped carry the Red and White squad to eight brilliant victories.

For the first time in history, a blocking trophy was awarded the Raider griddier who, in the opinion of a committee of sport scribes and coaches, was the most dependable interferer of the Raider squad. Bob Hunter, donor, presented the cup to Walter "Buster" Adams, junior guard, and All-State team member, who for the past two years has become the highest-spirited member of the aggregation.

True to last year's prediction, Marion "Butch" Butler became one of the outstanding members of the squad in his fullback position. Although out of the lineup during the first part of the season due to a hand injury, the Butcher returned to add glory to himself and his alma mater with his beautiful bucking charges and soaring boots.

A newcomer to the Electric fold, Harold "Handsome" Forrest, playing his first and last season with the Speermen, was deemed by many, the best charger of the Red and White forces. His characteristic center plunges, which consistently gained ground, won him recognition from many sport writers in the state who warned their proteges of this powerful plunger of sterling quality. His one year at G. H. S. equalled the careers of many two and three-year veterans.

Jack "Maggie" McGee, the leader of Mentor Speer's surprise pony backfield, played a beautiful brand of football against opponents who out-weighed his team ten to twenty pounds. Weighing only 120, Maggie made his "hurdle run" at the line of scrimmage famous. Little, but, oh, my!

Stubborn, persistent in plunging the center of the line; dynamic force on two feet who sent his bent head plowing through the toughest opposition characterizes none other than Ozelle Cox, alternate running and blocking back of the '37 eleven. With two more years of service coming up, he should prove an invaluable mainstay of future Raider clans.

A veteran of three years' experience, a battle-scarred wise-acre of the flank position, Carroll Hambright ended his senior year with the possibilities of making excellent college material. Playing doggedly at an end post, "Toar" figured often in the new Speer version of the "end-around" play, but wound up the season on the sidelines, a victim of appendicitis.

Jimmy "Flop" Rhodes, serving his second year in the ranks of the Electrics, leaping into the air on many occasions to snag aeriels and wobble on to "pay dirt," promises to be a golden asset to the 1938 pigskin combine at G. H. S. from his end position.

Forming the second half of the only brother duet on the varsity starting eleven, Robert "Kelly" Rhodes, teamed with brother Jimmy, to flank the line of the Greenvillians. Absent from the roll call last year because of leg injuries, "Kelly" was back in fighting togs this season, also figuring in the "end-around" scoring plays.

Donald Linn, filling the shoes of All-State Lee Thomason of '36 fame, did an excellent job of holding down his tackle berth, and during his next year at G. H. S. should add further fame to the school.

Charlie "Blind Tom" Huff, affable and burly senior, held down the other tackle post brilliantly, and measured up to those sturdy principles which Walker Kirby laid down in 1936 as the guide-book for G. H. S. tackles.

Winding up a fine football career of three years at Greenville High, Pete Berry, outstanding senior both in extra-curricular activities as well as on the gridiron, played a steady game at guard last season. He was in the thick of the fight in the center of the line and paired with "Buster" Adams as one of the best guard combinations in the school's gridiron history.

Bill "Squatty" Squires, greatly improved over former seasons, stepped into the front ranks of the Electrics and started many of the major battles, even to the extent of leading his team mates as captain in several affrays.

Marion "Hawk-Eye" Craig, stationed in the center of the forewall, won such great recognition at his berth throughout the state that he received the call to represent

THE NAUTILUS

South Carolina's All-Stars at the middle post against the Tar Heels. But while in Charlotte for practices, he seriously injured his knee, throwing him out of the game and the entire basketball season. Craig lacked only one vote of knotting Easley's Jameson for the coveted center position on the All-State eleven.

Reserve tackle berth went to Marion "Footsie" Wood, whose substituting in the Winston-Salem game, practically won the tilt for G. H. S. His end-zone recovery of a Tar Heel fumble cinched the Raider's victory. Next year, "Footsie" should prove his true mettle to the Electric following.

Another member of the pony backfield, Fred Rumler, diminutive but game, raced over the gridiron when given the necessary interference, with the fleet feet of Mercury. He played his last year for the Speermen at the reserve fullback post and was a demon on defense.

Veteran reserve of three years service, Harold "Buck" Miller, ended his high school career pinch-hitting for Marion Craig at center.

Robert "Pinhead" Richardson, game senior tackle, was awarded the Most Valuable Scrub trophy for 1938 after persevering as a reserve for three long years.

Monroe Taylor, after three years of untiring service to the entire squad, was awarded his coveted block letter at the banquet along with the 19 players whom he groomed throughout his high school career. Invaluable service at all times, afternoon or night, marked his managerial services.

Long, lanky, and contented, yet ready to be of service to any of the Raider squad with whom he has worked for three years, Dick Riley ended his career in the same capacity he began it, a capable manager.

Summary of Brilliant 1937 Season

By James Magarahan
(High News Sports Editor)

FROM A FIELD of sixty eager and ambitious candidates, Coaches "Speedy" Speer and James "Slick" Moore gradually moulded another crack football eleven during 1937 which turned in a brilliant record of eight wins and only two defeats for the Red and White.

Possessing only four starting members of last season's regular combine for a nucleus of this year's aggregation, the mentors worked for three consecutive weeks drilling the fundamentals of the arts of blocking, tackling, and running into the novices before turning them loose on a list of the ten outstanding squads in North and South Carolina.

Opening the schedule with Belton's gallant Purple Warriors, the Raiders breezed through for their first victory on a 12-0 lead which they gathered in the second and third periods when Payne and Forrest tallied.

The Speermen then entertained Easley's Green Wave on the greensward of Sistine stadium, expecting another walk-away, but left the tilt greatly dismayed on the wrong end of a 7-0 tally, their only defeat in the state during the year. Five thousand howling, wild-eyed, and amazed spectators cheered the Electrics in vain.

Retaliating in admirable fashion, the Speermen journeyed down to the "City by the Sea" to push across the double stripes on two sustained drives, conquering the obstinate Charleston Bantams, 13-7.

Behind the twinkling feet of Bill Byers, Greenville High's Red Raiders roared on to their third gridiron victory of the season as they ran roughshod over a valiant but outclassed band of Sumter Gamecocks, 46-7. Payne, Byers, and Forrest played up and down the gridiron at will, tallying several times apiece in the lop-sided affray.

Coming from behind after their opponents had rung up one tally, the '37 brigade of Raiders, considered by many the most outstanding offensive machine ever manufactured at G. H. S., out-maneuvered the ever-powerful Columbia Caps, 24-6 for their first victory in history over Coach Rhames' men.

Entering the Anderson tilt a heavy favorite, the crimson-clad band lived up to expectations by trampling the helpless Yellow Jackets by the top-heavy score of 55-0. Coach Speer let the entire squad see service in this game and the Greenvillians ran rampant on the Anderson gridiron.

Led by Marion "Footsie" Wood, reserve tackle, who rose to supreme heights by recovering a fumble over the goal line in the waning moments of the game for the margin of victory, the Red Raiders fought doggedly to defeat the highly touted Winston-Salem Orphans' home, 14-7. This was the Orphans' second defeat in more than 35 fracas.

With "Bullet" Bill Byers in the van, the Speermen smeared the powerful Spartanburg Crimson Tiders by 19-6 as the brilliant little quarterback scored all three Greenville tallies on beautiful runs. Two of these touchdowns came on intercepted passes in the final two minutes of the embroglio. It was the second year in a row that the G. H. S. boys had been returned victorious over the Hub City lads.

The Speermen next engaged an unexpectedly strong Asheville High eleven in the "Land of the Sky" and were defeated by a close 7-6 count. The Raiders had the Maroons on the run in the last half but scored only once, although knocking on the touchdown door on several occasions.

With bitter rivalry prevailing as usual, the twice-defeated Electrics smothered a gallant Parker Golden Tornado before over 6,000 fans in Sirrine stadium by 37-0 to close one of the school's most successful gridiron seasons. "Booty" Payne, Greenville's All-Southern back, led the Red and White attack. Most of the Greenville reserves saw action in the finale.

Varsity Football at G.H.S.

By Bill Hughes

WITH THE INAUGURATION of the gridiron sport in 1916 under the tutelage of John M. Holmes, football has grown to be the greatest department in the entire G. H. S. sporting repertoire, and under whose banner more Red and White teams have been placed among the sportanic immortals than in any other branch of athletic endeavor.

Included in that great '16 squad's roster were such names as Babe Hammett, great Furman lineman; Gene McManaway, one of the finest backs ever to sweep a Southern gridiron; and Hopkins, great distance kicker. This team copped the coveted Palmetto state trophy, downing all high school opposition while displaying a clean brand of play on the field. Only a handful made up the squad, the entire contingent numbering a mere 16 strong.

With the entrance of the United States into the World war in 1917, many great performers of the season before enlisted. Mr. L. N. Foy, now a member of the editorial staff of the Greenville News, coached a small eleven that campaigned but not much was achieved in the pigskin world, due to the great crisis. But, in 1919, following the landing of victorious American troops on home soil again, a great number of former Raiders reentered school and an inspired powerhouse roared on that season, which blasted a well-rated Hastoe eleven unmercifully, 56-0, in a runaway triumph. Among the outstanding stars was Harry Martin, all-round athlete.

Truly the great stars of the Holmes' reign were Robert Bruce, a mighty atom at his end position; Bill Payne, a fast and elusive fireball who had opponents guessing the full 60 minutes of play; Jim Birnie, who tackled with deadly accuracy; Walter Martin and "Bud" Eskew, destined to become two of Clemson's best; and Kenneth Cass, a fine athlete who now holds down the business managerial post for Greenville's professional Spinner baseball crew.

Coach Holmes, after serving for nine years as athletic director gratis, left in 1924 and was succeeded by Jay Couch. After handling the coaching duties until 1928, Couch was then followed by Dan "Cowboy" Coleman. "The Cowboy" sent the '28 Raider edition onto a fair season and in 1929, "Speedy" Speer, former Furman great and present day mentor, took over the athletic reins and was installed as director.

Speer's first year at his new post was a rousing one, the Raiders taking seven fraeases while dropping two. Two of the greatest backs ever to don Electric trappings were Charlie Galloway and Tom Black, touchdown twins on this eleven who almost single-handedly established the Red and White as a first-rate championship contender. Joe Geer, Joe Hendrix, Herbert Duckett, Lewis Robinson, and Hank Wells also displayed a willingness to take and give with the best of them, being defensive demons in their forewall slots.

But, with the graduation of Wells, Black, and Galloway the following season, the '30 array fared badly in static competition, losing six starts while winning three.

In the last nine years, all under the tutorship of Mentor Speer, Greenville teams have established a brilliant 113-game record of 77 wins bracketed with 33 defeats, and with three tilts going down in the record books as deadlocks. Among the outstanding performers of this starry decade were Johnny Gresham, Don Willis, the Durham boys, "Big" and "Lit"; Charlie Power, Joe Payne, Walt Payne, Oliver Payne, and "Shag" Chandler.

Resume of Thrilling '38 Cage Season

By Bill Hughes

WITH THE KEY POSITIONS covered by a seasoned array of veterans and a sprinkling of experienced first-year men, Greenville High's '38 hardwood performers turned in a season's record of nine wins bracketed along with eight defeats as Marion Butler, brilliant junior forward, snapped the accepted all-time scoring record, tallying 182 points from the floor and foul line to surpass Johnny Gresham's achievement of 157 counters racked up in 1935.

The Raiders opened the season with a bang, exploding a desperate last-half offensive in the faces of a totally unprepared Due West quintet to win, 44-39, after the visitors had been 15 points ahead at the halfway mark.

Following up this early season advantage, the Red and White snatched on to two lop-sided victories over Anderson, 33-14, and Columbia's Capitals, 43-27. But, as in so many seasons before, the usual Parker jinx again held good, as before 2,000 rabid fans, the Tornado spanked the city cagers, 32-26.

The Greenvillians, venting all their vengeful rage on a green but willing Olympia High contingent in their next encounter, established a large lead during the initial stanza to ride the visitors down, 48-18, and continued the Imp onslaught on the Devil's court, 32-14, to wind up with five decisions against a single loss as the midway mark neared.

With the victory bubble again bursting in their faces, the locals dropped a heart-breaking 33-31 extra-period battle to Columbia in a return contest on the Caps' floor. Out in front, 31-29, as the tussle waned, a desperate Cap offense clicked for one more basket and an extra-period award. This blow collapsed the Greenvillians' hopes, and it was an easy matter for the Columbians to romp through the closing minutes of the already decided affray.

But, as usual with all scoring sprces, they were finally stopped. The nigh-impenetrable Parker jinx put in its usual and accustomed "dirty work," and the Raiders trudged off the home floor broken in spirit. A surging Golden rally, with "Pcanut" Freeman cast in heroic mold, had dropped the Speermen, 27-25, as the diminutive Parker reserve had sunk a beautiful mid-floor shot with fifteen seconds remaining in the final period to send the Tornado on to victory.

Stumbling along in a losing streak from which it seemed they could never recover, the locals succumbed, 33-21, to a rangy Asheville attack. The Mountaineers grabbed an early lead and steadily increased it as the apparently stunned Raiders found great difficulty in penetrating the Tarheels' defense.

On the heels of the Asheville defeat came the initial contest with Spartanburg's high-flying Birds, for many years their bitter rivals. This resulted in the same, sad story—Greenville's inability to shake off the after-effects of the Parker setback. The final score found the Sparts holding the upper hand, 30-22, although the Raiders appeared to be gradually reviving as a spirited rally in the final quarter endangered the Tide's ample lead.

Fighting a brilliant up-hill battle, the Electrics forged ahead in the fourth quarter to eke out a 41-37 triumph over Furman university's yearling array and appeared to again be in the good graces of old Dame Fortune as their scoring plays clicked and the defense showed concrete qualities. But down they sank again as the victory hungry Plebe quintet "spilled the beans" by trouncing a crippled Raider quintet by 41-26 in the return engagement on the G. H. S. floor.

With the Furman defeat acting as a much-needed smelling salts, the Red cagers snapped out of their scoring lethargy and buried a highly-rated Atlanta Boys' High five under a hail of free throws and crisp shots, winning 48-28 as the Georgians appeared utterly outclassed.

The Speermen, sparked by the return to form of Marion Butler, continued their shooting spree at the expense of the again hapless Andersonians, who again bit the dust, 50-22. But that really wasn't the important thing. In the final frame, Butler found the basket for his 158th point and a new all-time scoring record. He finally ran his total to 160 tallies before the tilt was concluded.

Again the law of averages over-hauled the Raiders and they dropped a hard 31-33 fracas to Spartanburg's state champion Red Birds as a delayed Greenville attack fell several points short of its intended mark.

Playing their final game on the home floor, the Red and Whitesters avenged a mid-season loss to the Asheville brigade as they bounced the visitors unceremoniously, 35-21. Three Greenville stalwarts bade adieu to the home fans as Westmoreland, Gettys, and Griffeth will graduate this year.

The Speer-coached clan rang down the curtain on a most-successful campaign as the Class "C" state titleholders, Due West, walloped the Electrics, 28-18, on the former's court. However, the Speermen carried on with several reserves in the lineup.

The Greenvillians tallied 574 points over the seventeen-game span to opponent's total of 477 markers. Based on an average game score, this would leave the Raiders on the long end of a 34-28 count. Their 50-22 conquest of the Anderson Jackets would go down in the record books as the highest score made, while the low-score mark would go to the Due West embroglio, 28-18. Pres Westmoreland followed closely on the flying heels of Butler with a 141 point total, although several points short of the trim forward's furious pace-setting.

Carthel Crout, a junior high recruit, carried on well at his center slot, and made Raider fans forget Orvel Duncan of last year's team. "Flop" Rhodes, junior, took up where he left off last year and turned in a fine performance. W. R. Riddle was a fireball at his guard slot, as was Vern Griffeth until an injured wrist forced him out of actual competition early in the season.

Jim Reeves, dubbed "Chesty," cavorted like a veteran at his guard position and although small in build, held many great scoring stars in tow.

Bill Byers was a stand-out on this year's quint. He was accurate on his shots and exceptionally fast on his feet. Don Linn proved to be a demon on defense and subsequently saw much action. Linn was almost impenetrable when on the defense and good on backboard shots.

"Buster" Adams was injured as the season barely was rolling under way, and was badly missed. He was the real spark-plug and fought to the very end.

Mr. Loggins

THE PRINCIPALSHIP of W. F. Loggins, who came to G. H. S. from Hayne school where he had capably filled the principal's chair for three years prior to the scholastic year 1928-29, was distinguished by a marked enlargement in the curriculum and a broadening of the field of extra-curricular activities.

In 1929, the practice of using the traditional cap and gown was inaugurated for G. H. S. seniors.

The following year saw a renovation of the old Central school building, which included the construction of a large cafeteria and auditorium within the historic walls. This led to the lengthening of the school day and the installation of the cafeteria under the supervision of Miss Floride Harper, who is still in charge of the G. H. S. eating place. An addition was also made to the old left wing of the plant.

Mrs. Louise Y. Earle was made the first dean of girls and director of extra-curricular activities in 1929. She served with great efficiency in that capacity until the spring of 1937 at which time she resigned to accept the principalship of Sumter Girls' High school.

Under the joint direction of these two wide-awake administrators a comprehensive program of student activities was begun. High News, prize-winning G. H. S. newspaper, was founded in 1928. Clubs, for the first time, were completely organized under Mrs. Earle's supervision in 1929.

Student participation in the government of the school was instituted at the same time, with the establishment of the Forum and the ten standing committees. Student officers were elected for the initial time in 1929-30, with Tom Black serving as the first student body president, and Annie Sue Walker as vice president. Later a G. H. S. constitution was drafted and adopted.

The junior high school system was inaugurated in the city schools in 1934, with the G. H. S. student body being limited to the ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades. The erstwhile freshman classes were placed in the various junior highs located throughout the system.

Mr. Loggins' seven-year administration, marked by unprecedented progress along all lines, came to a close at the conclusion of the 1934-35 session at which time he was granted a leave of absence to continue his studies.

The following year, he resigned to accept the superintendency of the Sumter, South Carolina, city schools.

This prominent educator will be welcomed back to the city school fold next year as he becomes assistant superintendent and director of secondary education, with supervision of the senior high one of his major duties.

1925 State Baseball Champs

THE 1925 Red Raider baseball team was the last G. H. S. combine to win the state championship. The team, rated by experts as one of the best in the state's history, and Coach Lolly Gray are pictured above. Mr. Parkhurst

THE ADMINISTRATION of A. J. Parkhurst, who came from Donaldson Junior High school to replace Mr. Loggins as G. H. S. principal in 1935, has been marked by further advancement in local secondary educational endeavors.

Under his leadership, the vocational and cooperative departments have been organized as never before. A well-defined system of guidance has been installed, enabling the students to better prepare themselves for the tasks that are to confront them in later life.

The administrative force has been enlarged with the addition of a full-time assistant principal. Percy Wise served in this position during 1936-37, being succeeded this year by M. T. Anderson.

Mrs. Louise Earle, after six years of faithful service as dean of girls, resigned at the close of the 1936-37 scholastic year and was replaced by Miss Elizabeth Jones, former member of the G. H. S. foreign language department.

Important advances in the realm of student activities during Mr. Parkhurst's administration follow: organization of the Key club for boys and the Voselo club for girls, leadership combines which have proved of great value to student morale; the adoption of the president's advisory cabinet in 1936-37; the revamping and amending of the G. H. S. constitution in 1937; the founding of the South Carolina Scholastic Press association by the Greenville High chapter of the Quill and Scroll society, international honorary society for high school journalists, in 1936, with the school as host to the association's mammoth conventions in the spring of 1936 and 1937; the innovation of the High News Board of Control and of open politics in student elections; the adoption this year of the precinct method of student voting; an enlarged and improved music department; and a huge magazine sale to raise funds to purchase band uniforms.

Mr. Parkhurst has been instrumental in planning the beautiful new building which G. H. S. is to occupy next year.

His regime will end with the present school year, as he resigned recently to continue study toward his doctor's degree.

History of G. H. S. Clubs

BY MARY McMAHAN

THE HISTORY of Greenville High school clubs may be traced back to an earlier date than 1929 when they were organized in their present form by Mrs. Louise Y. Earle, then high school dean of girls.

In the fall of 1916, Dr. J. L. Mann organized four literary societies, two for boys and two for girls, in the three upper classes. In the fall of 1922, four more societies were formed to take care of the growing high school enrollment at that time. Also, in 1923 four literary clubs were organized for freshman students.

Clubs, as we now have them, were organized by Mrs. Louise Y. Earle when she became dean of girls in 1929. They were sponsored at that time by Miss Jean Moffett, a member of the high school faculty. Miss Moffett remained sponsor for two years and was succeeded by Miss Margaret Cunningham in 1931. Upon Miss Cunningham's death the following year, Miss Mary Townes took over the organization. Miss Mel Lee Daniel, the present club adviser, has held forth very capably since 1934.

Debby Ebaugh, the first student club committee chairman, has been succeeded throughout the years by many able students, including Sara Inman, Gladys Plowden, Mary Ellen White, Kitty Mann, Mary Louise Breazeale, and Thomas Jacobs.

The rapid increase in the number of clubs from 19 during the initial year to 37 this year makes one wonder just how much clubs will mean to G. H. S. in future years.

Girls' Sports at G.H.S.

By Marydel Carpenter

FOR THE LAST 14 years the girls' physical education department has played an important role in the scenes of many a maiden's brief stay at Greenville High school.

Before the building of the gymnasium in 1925, basketball was the one and only sport indulged in by G. H. S. lassies. With no official director in charge, the team was coached by teachers of the school with occasional direction from members of the Y. W. C. A.

But, with the completion of the gymnasium, a permanent physical education director came to the school in the person of Miss Caroline Easley, present head. Besides the regular gym classes which were automatically begun, the games of baseball and volleyball were added to basketball in that year. Inter-class tournaments were held then.

The next thing to occur was the departure of Miss Easley in 1927 in order to travel in Europe and study. Miss Eliza deSaussure filled the vacancy. Miss deSaussure's regime was noted for the fine track teams produced in Greenville High's backyard. Those were the days of the "Big Ten," and the tracksters nearly always placed high in the events entered in that competition.

In 1932, Miss deSaussure left and Miss Easley returned to take up the position vacated by her own successor.

The year 1933 marked a red letter year in the history of G. H. S. girls' sports, as many and varied happenings are recorded for that year. It was the last year of the Big Ten for South Carolina high schools and the beginning of the Girls' Athletic association.

In the final Big Ten meet, Greenville High's athletic maidens placed third in the sweepstakes, though winning recognition in the volleyball, tumbling, baseball, tennis, and horse shoe pitching events. Anderson and Spartanburg won first and second places respectively in the sweepstakes.

The 1933 tennis team was especially outstanding. Mary Simms Oliphant, Connie Lewis, Caro Wyehe, and Frances Cary were the members of the group which was chosen from the winners of a school tournament. This team was the first organized one to be had at G. H. S. but the custom has been observed ever since.

Archery was begun in 1933. Though only a limited amount of equipment has been obtained, the lassies have created a great amount of interest in the game and it has become quite popular.

The event of the most importance in 1933 was the organization of the Girls' Athletic association. Under the leadership of Miss Easley and Evelyn Lawrence, first president of the group, the inaugural meet was held in the Greenville High auditorium in February, with 36 maidens attending.

The first officers were Evelyn Lawrence, president; Anne Williams, vice president; Elizabeth Talbot Smith, secretary; and Frances Cary, recording secretary. The charter members were as follows: Ailene Cosgrove, Paula Vaughan, Mary Wyehe, Frances Hill, Mary Lynch, Etca Hill, Sarah Inman, Florence McPherson, Lucy Gibson, Elsie Hill, Leota Major, Mary Nelson, Laura Hambricht, Helen Early, Nellie Mae Caldwell, Frances Thomas, Fay Tollison, Opal Moore, Margaret Lowery, Helen Surratt, Anne Gibson, Elizabeth Richardson, Connie Lewis, Robbie Owen, Edith Burry, Mary Ridgeway, Anne Phillips, Sue Woods, Wilma Hadden, and Elizabeth Johns.

Among memory's Hall of Fame in the girls' department are some of the following maidens who were noted in the various sports: Fannelle Shepperson, track and basketball; Evelyn Lawrence, Lueille Bonham, and Pauline Simpson, track; Martha Geer, Margaret Bonham, Doris Wright, Connie Lewis, Mary Wyehe, Lillian Lewis, and Gerda Prevost, tennis; Mary Bean, basketball; Jane Cothran, the Traynham sisters, Jean Cushman, and Curran Earle, golf; Florence McPherson and Edith Gentry, all-round.

A new era in girls' sports at Greenville High school will be inaugurated when the activities at the new high school building are started. With more space and facilities, the horizon promises a bright future.

Boys' Basketball at G. H. S.

By James Manos

GREENVILLE HIGH'S historic Red Electric basketball powers, dating all the way back to 1911 when the popular sport was added to the rather slim Red and White sports curriculum, have established a fair record during that lengthy span of topnotch competitive playing.

In 1911, when the G. H. S. gates were opened to the sport for the initial time, Kilbern, the coach, started the new addition off with a bang as his basketekers mowed down all opposition with apparent ease. Many players starred for this aggregation including Johnny Garraux, who was later to become head mentor.

All of these games were reeled off on the Y. M. C. A. court, as the local high school was without adequate playing grounds at that time.

Kilbern was relieved from his tutoring position in 1915 by genial Johnny Garraux who also stacked up an impressive record. His coaching duties were inaugurated soon after his graduation from the Electric institution. A Hungarian by the name of Szabo was a shining performer during this period with the Electrics. Also Clyde Harris, Hugh Bryan, Abraham McManus, Arthur Owen, Sammy Fayonsky, Walt Tiedeman, and Oliver Goings were flashy in their brand of action on the hardwood.

In 1928 Eddie Toohey took over the reins as head basketball mentor, replacing Garraux. At this time the Electric quintets were engaging such touted fives as the freshman teams from Wofford, Furman, South Carolina, and Newberry. High school opponents were Westminster, Spartanburg, Anderson, Columbia, and Charleston.

Mr. Toohey had a galaxy of star showmen who wore the traditional Red and White uniform of Greenville High. Several of these were Armfield, a rangy sharpshooter, who pulled many a contest out of fire for the Electrics with his gaping, lofty net-singers; Big Ed Kendall, a fine defensive player; Alvin Gilreath and Bert Martin, both standouts.

During the Fall of 1928 diminutive James Harrell "Speedy" Speer succeeded Toohey. Mr. Speer is the present tutor at the Raider school. He, during his maiden season, had several standout floormen on his fighting clan including John Harvley, "Slick" Moore, and Charlie Galloway. Ralph Huff played that year and was the last captain-elect to play for Greenville.

"Speedy" experienced fair campaigns during the seasons of 1930-'31- and '32 as his records were divided equally most of the time between the won and lost columns. Lewis Robinson and Bill Wright were standouts during the '30 season.

Truett Wakefield took over the hardwood coaching job the next season, 1933. A fair campaign was reeled off, with the Durham twins and Johnny Gresham playing steadily throughout the campaign.

"Speedy" Speer and "Slick" Moore again took over the duties of coaching the hardwood hopefuls in '34 and did the impossible by whipping Parker's ill-blowing Tornado twice. Don Willis, "Big" Durham, "Lit" Durham, and Johnny Gresham bore the burden of paving the way for the fine season accomplished.

The '35, '36, and '37 seasons were dotted with bright stalwarts on the Speer-coached teams. Some of these were Willard Hearin, Orvel Duncan, Marion Craig, Walter Adams, Bill Goodlette, and Carrol Hambright.

The 1938 season found Marion Butler cracking the old record of Johnny Gresham in points scored for a season, with a total of 181 in pacing his team through one of the most prosperous years in G. H. S. history. Preston Westmoreland, W. R. Riddle, and Carthel Crout were other classy performers.

Minor Sports at G. H. S.

WITH THE PASSING of the last twenty years, golf and tennis, cream of the minor sports, have flourished and promise to become headliners in the years to come, but baseball, the real American game, has so faltered that it has become only a minor issue in the annual G. H. S. athletic grind. Track has also passed out of the Greenville repertoire after a fairly successful inauguration, and talk of great Red and White cindermen and diamond performers is now spoken in a reverent past tense.

Greenville baseball teams were always fine competitors in Palmetto diamond circles and under the tutelage of Lolly Gray, grand old man of baseball, climbed to unparalleled heights in the G. H. S. baseball sun, while producing such unforgettables as Sammy Fayonsky, who sky-rocketed to the major leagues and the daffy Dodgers of Brooklyn; Henry Huff, great moundsman; Eddie Fender, Jack Williams, Kenneth Cass, Alvin Gilreath, and others.

Romping off with the state title in 1925, '26, '27, Raider track teams all along have merited great praise and, although showing up very poorly at times, have been as a whole great contributors to the high ratings tacked up by noted Electric athletes. Among these were Powers Walker, speedy dash man; Archie Costner, fine distance runner; Flournoy Shepperson, long-winded runner and jumper; Woodrow Bailey, Herb Childers, and Don Willis, burly "handy man." John M. Holmes, present secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., handled the first coaching assignment but, retiring in 1924, he was followed by Jay Couch. Couch was succeeded by "Cowboy" Coleman, who held the job until '29.

"Speedy" Speer, present day mentor, then parked his years of experience behind that year's crop of track adherents and continued coaching this department until 1936 at which time the sport joined the rapidly growing list of G. H. S. "has beens," because of inadequate training facilities. But track is one of those sportanic "die-hards" that never seems to be entirely removed from the yearly athletic issue. It is entirely possible that when the high school is moved into the spacious new plant on Vardry street the sport will be reinstated.

Golf and tennis are comparatively new additions to the Red and White sporting banner but have literally covered themselves with glory along all lines. The Raider golfing foursome of 1935 swept all opposition from its path and went on to win the Southern Interscholastic golf crown. Charles Dudley, who attended Baylor Military academy and ended his accomplishments there in a blaze of glory by copping the Southern Prep school title, held down the number one post on this aggregation and single-handedly accounted for many of the victories. G. H. S. stars who served with Dudley on earlier teams were John D. Christopher, Hugh Walker, Furman luminary, and Lee Shackelford.

Raider net stars who have carved individual niches in the Hall of Fame while leading the tennis battalions on to many victories were Mallory Smith, Furman netman; Bill Goodlette, Sonny Oliphant, Richard Watson, great star of a few years back; Harold Southern, Shaefer Kendrick, and Both Crigler. The net teams have established a fine precedent by their bulldog spirit and, although the wins for many seasons were few and far between, they have always played to win.

GRADUATES AND STUDENTS . . .

We congratulate you upon your promotion. Each step in education is an accomplishment you may be proud of—an asset in every future undertaking. Take advantage of further education at college, if at all possible.

And remember . . .

The eyes of some business man are constantly on you. He is waiting and watching, and in due time will offer you a place in business. So determine now, and with a will power that will not be shaken, that you will be the sort of young man employers are looking for—enthusiastic, energetic, courteous young men who are scrupulously honest and fair, and sober.
